

Queen - manage your moves and your life. "Protect"

The Queen has many moves and is considered the most powerful piece on the board. In chess, this piece can be one of your most important pieces. You must be able to manage the moves of the Queen in the game, or you risk changing your entire strategy. This is also in life! If he or she is not managing their own steps, neither is ready for the game or life. Life is not a game and in this stage, we must protect our character, values, and principles. In chess just like in life, you are either playing to win or playing to not lose. There is a difference!

King - "Leadership"

The game of chess is all about protecting the King, just like in life. The King provides the leadership to all the pieces on the board. In life, we all are to be leaders based on the purpose we are here. We must develop, and understand the ways of the King. When the King can no longer move, this is called checkmate. In life, if the King is no longer present in your life, you have a greater chance of the world placing you in checkmate. Leaders provide purpose, navigation, and empowerment to each piece on the board, just like in life. Protect the King!
